BULLETIN: Herb Pomeroy Surprise For Weekend

by Raymond K. LeRoux

In an unprecedented move, the St. Michael's detachment of the United States Air Force Reserve Officers Training Program canceled its previous commitment for Cozy Cole and his entourage of entertainment on Thursday and engaged the services of the Herb Pomeroy orchestra for Military Weekend.

Captain Wilkens, chairman of the event, told The MICHAELMAN that he had the opportunity, at the last moment, to engage a superior program of entertainment for the weekend. This had to be done, he said, when a booking mixup occurred. Cole's wife had booked his band the same night at a Brooklyn parish.

Captain Wilkens said that Mr. Malcolm, agent for Cole, notified him of the discrepancy in planning. Wilkens decided; No Cole, no package.

A friend of the captain's, Martin A. Forrest, booking agent for Lordly and Dame, Inc., happened to be in Burlington as agent for the Lane Series at the University of Vermont. Wilkens then arranged for the following program:

On Friday night, either Coleman Hawkins or Don Elliot will entertain the cadets and their dates from 8:00 P.M. to 12:00 P.M. Both of these world famous musicians are members of the Pomeroy group.

On Saturday night, the entire Pomeroy group of 14 will play for the grand ball in Alliot Hall from 9 to 12 P.M.

Recording for Newport festivals, Boston Arts Roulette, United Artists Records, and Savoy Records, the Pomeroy group has recently appeared at Birdland and last summer played at the famous Newport Jazz Festival.

The Friday night group is formally known as the Jazz Workshop and is famous in its own right.

Captain Wilkens emphasized that this change in plans was a positive step taken only because a better program of entertainment happened to be available for the event.

Captain Wilkens also announced that even though a superior group has been obtained, there will be no additional cost for the weekend.

One further development in the situation was the impossible revision of the programs to compensate for this development. The MICHAELMAN has contracted to issue extra copies this week with the front page dedicated to the Military Weekend. We are glad that we can be of service to a vital department of St. Michael's College.

Students participating in the weekend are asked to notice the changes in the time schedule for the events.

Jazz, Berlioz, and Lecture Scheduled

by Luis A. Villares

With Coleman Hawkins or Don Elliott in the jazz concert Friday night opening the activities for this year's Military Weekend, St. Michael's College began its most active weekend of the current academic year.

Military Weekend extends through Sunday afternoon. That night the St. Michael's College Glee Club will combine with five other glee clubs to perform "L'Enfance du Christ" by Hector Berlioz in Austin Hall with the Vermont Symphony Orchestra providing the musical background.

Dr. Willy Ley, the famous authority on rockets and space travel comes to St. Michael's on Monday as guest lecturer of the Student Forum Lecture Series.

MILITARY WEEKEND

The music of the Jazz Workshop Quintet will act as the advance of the 14 piece orchestra of Herb Pomeroy that will entertain for the weekend. Now touring the New England college circuit, Pomeroy and his group have recently played in Birdland, citadel of American jazz.

Only last summer, the orchestra and jazz combos played at the famous Newport Jazz Festival.

The NEW YORK TIMES describes the group as "... a spirited, enthusiastic group that bites into a well-balanced set of selections with sensitivity and polish."

Their Burlington agent described them as accomplished musicians who forsake the glamorous appearance of the "Hollywood bands" for the sake of music.

TIME CHANGED

Students will note the changed time schedule for the weekend in the previous article.

All events will take place on the campus with formal Saturday night in Alliot Hall.

MASS SUNDAY

The Military portion of our chuck-full weekend will culminate Sunday morning with a get-together in Alliot Hall after the 11:30 A.M. Military Mass which will be celebrated in the chollage chapel.

CONCERT SUNDAY

The St. Michael's College Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. William Tortolano, will combine with the Castleton College Glee Club, the Green Mountain College Chorus, the Middlebury Community Chorus, and units from the Middlebury College Choir Sunday at 8:15.

The 65 piece Vermont Symphony Orchestra will contribute the instrumental portion for the Hector Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ."

Four soloists, including Mrs. Tortolano and three professional male singers from New York City, will sing the solo leads.

The entire production will be under the direction of Dr. Alan Carter, conductor of the orchestra.

DR. LEY MONDAY

"Missiles and the future" is the topic of Dr. Willy Ley for his lecture on Monday night.

Dr. Ley has served as a research engineer for the Washington (D.C.) Institute of Technology and as a consultant to the office of technical services of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The author of many well-known books, in the science field, Dr. Ley tutored Werhner Von Braun in rocket research.

"The Man in the Moon will be meeting a man on the moon before the end of the century" has been Ley's prediction. That prediction based on more than 30 years of experience and research in the field. His most famous book is "The Conquest of Space".

As a student in Germany, Ley helped from the first rocket research organization. It was a forerunner of the German Rocket Society of which he is an honorary member. It was Dr. Ley who introduced Werner Von Braun to this organization and who served as his first tutor in rocket research.

With the arrival of Hitler, Ley left Germany in 1935 for England and what he calls "an extended vacation". A year later, he came to this country and became a U.S. citizen in 1944.

Finding the American public unsympathetic to the rocket theory, he made a living writing articles on zoology and other braches of science. When the first rocket hit London, the government called on Ley for expert advice.

Since then he has been a consultant to many governmental and private research services.

Not all his work has been on the "heavy" side. Walt Disney engaged him to advise on the "Tomorrowland" portion of his T.V. program.

William C. Donahue, Jr., Middletown, Conn., senior, is chairman of the series.

THE EDITOR'S NOTES

Social:
Tonight inaugurates the 1961-62 Military addition to our social calendar. This event enables a good portion of our student body to view something that the study of the humanities here on the Hilltop fails to provide - namely, the opposite sex. It also gives us a view not generally publicized of the military - it can be enjoyable.

Today, the military is often in the news. The activation of one reserve unit and the world situation, as a whole, indicate that the armed services have become an integral part of one's life. The weekend helps to soften this prospect that awaits us upon graduation day. Enjoy it!

Political:
Lately, recommendations have been circulating around and about the campus to the effect that some solution be found for the inadequate handling of last year's yearbook supplements.

One such recommendation allows the holding of club and organization elections during the early part of the second semester. This would eliminate the responsibilities of club activities from being placed in the hands of Seniors that are just too busy to give their best efforts.

It is an interesting theory but most club charters would have to be radically changed.

General:
This is the last issue of The MICHAELMAN before the first vacation of the year. The upperclassmen don't have to be reminded of the sorrow caused by traffic tragedies in the past. However, for the freshmen, especially, we exhort all students to drive carefully both ways.

When we return from Thanksgiving, basketball season will begin in earnest. Local alumnus John Trottier has promised a very successful season. He reports that he is having his famous coat cleaned for the opener.

The MICHAELMAN congratulates Judge J. Wm. O'Brien upon his election as local alumnus president.

Once again, Father Ziter is to be commended for his successful program of spiritual matters. The triduum was well handled.

SMC Invades the Astor

Christmas dance will be held in the West Ballroom of the Hotel Astor in New York City on December 28.

Plans for the affair have a cocktail hour from 7:30 to 9:00 P.M. and a dance from 9:00 P.M. to 1:00 A.M.

The cost is $5.50 per couple for the dance and $4.00 per couple for the cocktail hour. The prices are for tickets purchased in advance.

Only 125 tickets will be sold. Those not sold on campus will be sold for the cocktail party at the hotel.

Bulletins providing additional information will be posted on the bulletin boards.

Daniel Beards, President
Joseph Cironi, Treasurer
Anthony Guariglia, Co-ordinator

A meeting has been called for Nov. 29 in Alliot Hall for those interested in the formation of an English Club. The meeting will be at 8 in the second floor conference rooms.

The possibility of such a club has been discussed in class sessions and in the English department meetings. The meeting is open to all concentrators.

Local Orphans to be Guests of SMC Groups

by Norm Parrow
Many young children will be made happy on December 8, 1961. This is the date on which a Christmas party for the children of St. Joseph's orphanage will be held. The party is being sponsored by four campus groups. The groups are: The Crown and Sword Society, the Arnold Air Society, the Knights of Columbus, and the St. Michael's College Glee Club.

In the past the Glee Club has sung for and with the kids and the Arnold Air Society has been the sponsor of this party, but this year with the addition of more organizations, there is a hope for a bigger and better party for these children who without any outside aid, would probably miss a lot of the traditional Christmas happiness.

The idea for this year's party started with the Crown and Sword Society, joined by the Knights of Columbus, maintained as tradition by the Arnold Air Society, and also sustained by the Glee Club, who have made it policy to sing at this party.

The party will be split into two sections, one in the afternoon for the younger children, and one in the evening for the older children. The Glee Club will sing at the evening party.

TOYS NEEDED

Considered very important for the success of this event by all those who are sponsoring it is a request for toys from the student body of St. Michael's.

These organizations ask you, the students of St. Michael's College to bring toys which you might have at your homes, back with you from the Thanksgiving vacation.

The finances for this event will be gained through a dance which will be held in early December. The dance will be set up by the four organizations who are sponsoring the party.

The committee heads for the party are: Jim Garofano, president of Crown and Sword Society; Pete Christo, Commander of the Arnold Air Society; Frank Rauch, representing the Knights of Columbus, and Dave Coupal, president of the Glee Club.

Readers Beware

Before you mail this MICHAELMAN home, whoa, halt and desist. That is, whoa, halt and desist until you make certain you have a three cent stamp.

The Public Relations office is slowly going bankrupt trying to put stamps on all the issues that are returned for lack of postage.

Instead of entering a subscription for Mother, Dad or The One and Only, a lot of students are just putting the address on their own copy and dropping it in the mailbox.

That little "Postage Paid" box at the top of The MICHAELMAN works only when it is sent out in bulk mailing. Otherwise, the paper needs three cents. And it bounces back.

Don't settle for second best. Get a subscription from Pat Curtin or Pat Bergin to a brand new, unread, unruffled MICHAELMAN for your VIP.

Or if you must save money, and send home only the good news, put on a three cents stamp. PLEASE!

Frosh Are Reading, Salinger to Voltaire

I recently read an article by a distinguished English professor at one of the more prominent educational institutes in this country. The author expressed his dismay over the paucity of good reading matter to be found in the "library" of the average student on his campus.

He went further and implied that this condition existed on virtually every campus in the country. Stung to thought by this charge, I determined to test its validity right here at St. Mike's. I therefore made a brief but extensive survey of the third and fourth floors of Ryan Hall, knocking on doors and asking the occupants what books they were reading instead of doing their Theology. Many and varied were the answers I received.

The majority of the students I questioned were doing research work in at least one of their subjects. Aside from books on required subjects, political novels, contemporary and classical philosophy, and the works of avant garde writers seem to make up the main topics for reading, with a few of the great classics thrown in for variety. To be more specific, here are some of the answers which I received in reply to my queries:

REPORTER: (stock question)

Frank Lytel: "Well Don, right now I'm reading "1984", "The Ugly American", "Exodus", "Dr. Zhivago", and "Advise and Consent."

Joe McLaughlin: "I really don't have too much time for outside reading, but whenever I have a spare minute I read some of "Quo

Vadis" the words of Jacques Maritain and Plato, and "Catcher in the Rye."

Bill Murphy: "I've recently developed a taste for the Romantic school of British literature. Right now I'm reading some of Keats' stuff."

Ed Egert: "It's really amazing, Don, but when I picked up the two books I'm now reading, I immediately got this completely perverted notion that I would stay in this weekend, instead of going out, and read. The books, by the way, are "Franny and Zooey" and "Anthony Adverse." Very Educational."

Paul Gianoli: "Well, right now, I'm just starting "The Immoralist", by Andre Gide and "Candide", by Voltaire. My favorite authors are A. Husley and H.G. Wells."

Mike Battenfeld: Dressed in corduroys and a sweatshirt, "Howl," by Allen Ginsberg. Now leave me alone. Get out!"

Well, there's what the average Michaelman (1965 model) reads for enjoyment. I think we compare quite favorably with students from some of the "Big Name" schools. I doubt if we'll hear very many complaints from our faculty about the scarcity or quality of our extra-curricular reading.

What am I reading?

The truth is, I'm avidly studying the pages of the "University of Vermont Freshman Directory" in a last minute attempt to get a date for Mil weekend.

Only 25 days until Christmas recess.

STUDENT FORUM

by Vaughn F. Keller

President Paul Upham made four announcements before he turned the floor over to Father Coombs.

1. Military Weekend is to be held this weekend.
2. Glee Club will present "L'enfance du Christ" Sunday night.
3. Willy Ley will speak in Austin Hall Monday night.
4. The "Quest" is accepting contributions throughout the year.

Father Coombs addressed the Forum and commented upon some of the recent activities of the Forum. He said that the Forum should be more judicial in its attitude towards the Constitution. He did not approve of the recent precedent that was set when the Forum amended its Constitution.

He voiced approval of the Constitution and said that he did not like to see it treated lightly. He did not like to think that the Constitution could be amended without serious consideration and he was concerned that this could set a dangerous precedent. In regard to this matter he said that the minutes that were turned into him left something wanting. The minutes did not give a numerical vote. The Constitution provides that the Constitution must be amended by a two thirds vote of the voting body. The recent amendment was approved unanimously.

Father Coombs said that he did not approve of the recent polling tactics that were used in the question of home addresses in the Student Directory and likened them to something that would be disapproved of even by Tammany Hall leaders. A box for polling was placed in the Post Office.

A second polling took place when the cards were passed out to the students. Father said that he considered it his duty to inspect these cards before the Directory was published in order to protect any one who did not wish that his home address be placed in the Directory.

Father said that he would like a written report from Mike Smith's Student Welfare Committee concerning Mr. Smith's recommendation that the Student Guide be made more specific in its terminology-appropriate attire. Father wanted to know who Mr. Smith expected to enforce any ruling that was made.

Father said that it was time for some serious thinking concerning the plastering of signs on the windows and halls in the dormitories. This is now covered in the Student Guide.

"I don't think if we're going to move out a piece of equipment we're going to consult you." This was Father Coombs' comment towards the recent Forum letter concerning the Jam Sessions. He said that the week that this was decided upon the Forum had not met when a quorum was not available. Father said that we could not expect to be members of the Forum and not show up for meetings.

"There is a real case of cynicism in the group, and almost a 'you show me' attitude. As long as this exists, no good will come of it. This cynical attitude . . . if that type of thing is not gotten rid of - then you are going to find the whole thing crashing down on you eventually It it continues, I will take the group that I know of and I'll sit them down and have a long talk with them." These are a few of Father Coombs' remarks concerning the attitude of some Forum members.

The Student Forum has not received a reply to the letter sent to Mr. Buchan concerning the recent administrative decision to hold Jam Sessions in Alliot Hall.

Mr. Imbres reported that he had discussed interclass hockey with "Doc" Jacobs and that "Doc" was in favor of it.

The Sophomore class received permission to hold a dance January 13.

The Junior class received permission to hold a raffle for the benefit of the Junior Weekend. Mr. Kohler said that tickets would be given out shortly and that the drawing would take place in February. The innwer will bet a trip to Nassau. Kohler added - for Mr. Drew's benefit - the boat did not sink.

The sponsors of the benefit dance for the orphanage will also sponsor a toy drive. They ask that people bring back any old toys that they may have when they go home for Thanksgiving vacation. These toys will be given to the children of the orphanage at the Christmas party.

A motion was passed to write a letter to the editor of the MICHAELMAN asking him to give his reasons for his recent editorial in which he likened the Student Forum to the United Nations in that the Forum had no power. Mr. Coupal wanted to know the reason for Mr. LeRoux's "dump" on the Forum in the article that dealt with the "Who's Who".

In the discussion, Mr. O'Connor said that the relations between The MICHAELMAN and The Forum should be closer.

Bergin Brothers Have A Mayor In the Family

by John Babel

Mayor Edward D. Bergin, father of Patrick S. Bergin and Edward D. Bergin, Jr., both of whom are currently attending St. Michael's College, was re-elected Mayor of Waterbury, Conn., during the recent Nov. 7th elections.

Mayor Bergin's past political activities include two previous terms as Mayor of Waterbury to which he was elected in 1955 and 1959. He has served on the School Board in Waterbury for 16 years, was Democratic Town Chairman from 1954 to 1960, and made an unsuccessful bid for Connecticut State Comptroller in 1953.

When asked whether he intends to follow in the political footsteps of his father, Pat emphatically replied "of course".

Currently the President of the Junior Class at St. Michael's College, Pat Bergin has already embarked on a successful political career. He was vice-president of his class during his first two years at St. Michael's. This year, in addition to heading the Junior Class, he holds the position of Vice-President of St. Michael's Student Forum.

Regarding a possible career in politics, Pat says, "I plan to enter into politics in the same vein as my father has taken, that is, more as a hobby than as a livelihood."

After graduation next year, Pat plans to attend Georgetown University Medical School and pursue a career in medicine.

Pat's brother, Edward, a Freshman at St. Michael's, is planning to make business his career.

The Grey Flannel Ear

by George R. Quinn

Many people (myself included) regret the fact that they are unable to play a musical instrument.

In addition to the sense of personal accomplishment, a little dexterity at the piano, guitar, or some similar device is by no means a social liability at a party -- be it of the indoor or beach variety.

In his book, Having Fun With Music, Doron K. Antrim provides the neophyte with a number of sound reasons why he should carry his musical expression past the whistling and humming stage and gather the courage to try a musical instrument for size.

Chapter four of his easily read volume is entitled "How to Play the Piano in Twenty Minutes" (an idea which would no doubt cause Mozart, Chopin, and Brahms to turn over in their respective graves) shows how you can chord your favorite melodies and play accompaniment for innumerable songs by simply learning a few basic chords. Within minutes he has you playing with two hands a number of simple tunes which will give you the groundwork for advancement in an activity which, at the very least, will provide you with a feeling of gratification you have heretofore been unaware of.

In addition to the piano, Antrim treats other basic instruments such as the guitar, ukulele, accordion, and harmonica. To aid your progress there are sections on pitch, rhythm, and harmony in addition to a full chapter explaining how to read a sheet of music.

KNOW HIS STUFF

Beginning as child by teaching himself how to play a second-hand harmonica, Mr. Antrim has been connected with the music business for over 30 years as a lecturer, author, composer, and teacher. In addition to his own radio program,

CAPITALISM AND YOU

by Paul B. Simmons

ON THE QUESTION - "WHAT'S NEW?"

Now there's a question no one ever seems to have an answer for. People ask it every day, and just as often as not they're answered with a flat: "Nothing, I guess." Either we're all leading very dull lives or we just don't like to talk about what we're doing. But there is one segment of society which has something "new" to talk about and talk they do because this "new" something is a vital subject.

It's the question of whether or not the United States will have to consider entering the Common Market in some way or other to protect its trade interests as well as its NATO ties. This is a thoroughly discussed topic in the business world, particularly among those engaged in foreign trade since these are the men who will be the first to feel the effects of Britain's possible membership in the "Inner Six".

COCKTAILS AND CONTROVERSY

To get an idea of what's being said about this question, let's drop in on a businessman's "after 5" get-together and wander around through the throng picking up what we can.

Now there's a portly gent who sounds animate enough to be interesting. ". . . . and George, I'm dead serious. You bankers must know that we're going to wind up joining the Market eventually so why not now while we're in a favorable position? There isn't much time, you know - just last year they jumped their outside trade by a whopping twenty-three per cent and boosted their G.N.P. over six per cent! How long are we going to be able to hold out with competition like that? Let's face it, we can't! And if you"

Over there near the fireplace that rotundorator has a fair-sized audience. Must be he's on some timely topic.

". . . . Yes sir, Gentlemen, I've heard all the arguments against our joining: why some claim that our factories with their high wage standards wouldn't be able to compete with factories in, say, Germany. But I don't think that's too cogent a comeback. Why the Europeans had that same fear about Holland's high wages competing with Italy's but after a while, the Dutch kept their Guilders while the Italians started to bring home more Lire. Same thing'll happen if we join; our wages won't change, but the European's will - they'll have to just to keep up! So why worry"

MEANWHILE OUT ON THE PORCH

". . . . and look, Jim, if Allegheny takes another trop up and down the charts like it did last year during the control fight, we just might be able to get in if we work fast enough."

"Sure, sure - but it'll take a lot of hedging with the board to float the capital and that takes time, John, too much time"

How did they get invited to this soiree?

But that trim chap over by the piano seems to be on the subject.

". . . . and it's obvious the trend is here. Why private capital is going over there at an alarming rate? Just last year the investments by our companies in Europe came to two and a half billions!"

"Yes but Frank, that doesn't mean much! Ford alone planted three hundred millions of that, G.M., G.E., Westinghouse - all the big ones are sinking a huge share of that two and a half billions. There aren't enough single investors to call it a real trend!"

"But that's where you're wrong! Sure, a few control a big chunk of the total but think of this: in the past three years alone, more than eight hundred American firms have started some kind of operation over there. Imagine how much capital will flow out when they're firmly established! What do you think, Clint?"

"Waaall, in the ad game things are pretty much the same. We're gonna play ball with this Common Market gamble and see what the score is. Looks good, the business angle I mean. The boys can see why the money's going out: taxwise, this foreign kick can't be beat. And the way we see it, agencywise we have to open up new frontiers and take a few scalps, profitwise. In the past seven weeks, sox of our competitors branched out over there and we're headed for the boat ourselves. Like I said, looks good; Europe's on the up - populationwise as well as incomewise."

AND IT GOES

Now that we've heard our talkative friend's three-martini analysis of the situation, we should have a good idea of "what's new" this year. Of course the question of our entering the Common Market or not is just that: a question. There haven't been any policies formulated or laws changed as of yet. There is always the possibility that nothing will come of Britain's efforts to join, but that possibility is not too strong.

Whatever does happen will have a profound effect upon al of us - but just what that effect will be is still uncertain. Perhaps we could visit another party here in a few months when things have more or less jelled in Washington and some policies have been written.

On our way, let's see if our patio panelists have come around to the current topic yet:

". . . . and this will surprise you! I ran into Bergen from G.E. the other night and from what he said, it looks good for their stock."

"Yeah, seems to me I heard something about a big jump in light bulb sales"

Former Registrar Garrett, '35 First Catholic In New Post

by Dan Gregory

Thomas A. Garrett, '35, former SMC Registrar and Admissions Director, has been named to succeed Randolph M. Morris as President of the New England Association of College Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Mr. Garrett will be the first Catholic to hold that executive post in the history of the organization. His election came as a climax to the two-day convention of NEACRO held at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel in Boston. Representing St. Michael's was Daniel F. MacDonald, present Registrar and Director of Admissions.

The former Registrar, after an association with St. Michael's which began nearly a quarter century ago, left Winooski Park to accept the post of Dean of Admissions at Assumption College.

During the year and half since leaving St. Michael's College, Mr. Garrett has participated in panel discussions, committees and other activities of the American Association of College Registrars and

T. A. Garrett

Admissions Officers of which NEACRO is the regional chapter.

This latest honor is further evidence of Mr. Garrett's talent and versatility. He has held at one time or another virtually every college administrative position. He was also the first layman to hold the office of National President of Delta Epsilon Sigma.

As President of NEACRO, Mr. Garrett will supervise its activities including public affairs forums, panel discussions, committees.

WSSE to be on WCAX

by George Quinn

On Saturday, November 18, at 12:45 p.m., the staff of WSSE will present its first in a series of weekly 15 minute productions over Radio Station WCAX.

The title of the program is "TIME OUT." Under the direction of William N. Cosel, Jr. Station Manager of WSSE, and Richard LaGasse, chairman of the WCAX project, staff members will take turns in producing and directing programs concerning St. Michael's College - its activities and student.

Tentative broadcasts over Vermont's first and largest station will deal with topics such as Student Government, Campus sports, the drill team, the foreign student program, and programs of a topical nature such as the International Christmas show scheduled for December 23.

To give the Burlington audience a better understanding of St. Michael's College, a typical day in the life of a Michaelman will also be portrayed. Excerpts from the Glee Club and Band Concerts Radio plays, and WSSE staff interviews are also scheduled.

The Very Reverend Gerald E. Dupont, SSE, President of St. Michael's College will be the guest speaker of the first program and an explanation of President's Day. Although these programs are now being aired only on WCAX, WSSE is currently making plans to have this program extended to more distant radio stations.

Nurse Says Exams Exhaust Students

by Ronald A. Sudol

Visitors to the college infirmary are likely to be cured of their assorted ills either by the modern medicine found there or by the mirth of the infirmary's jovial nurse, Mrs. Reichelt.

She has been treating her charges at St. Michael's for four years. "The infirmary has been redecorated this year, and, among other new equipment, we have sharper needles; the old ones were dull," she says.

Dr. Clarence Bombard, college physician for 23 years, Father Armand Dube, resident infirmary for a quarter of a century, and nurse Reichelt work as a well organized and highly experienced team and cure an endless parade of ailments --- usually according to the time of the year.

There are fractures during the ski season, broken noses during the basketball season, and, of course colds always.

"We usually treat a few of the frost-bitten thumbs of hitch-hikers after vacations," admits Mrs. Reichelt. "Then, during the quarterly exam season, we treat quite a few exhaustion cases.

"One year, just before the Easter season, we had a fellow who was bitten by a rabbit, and once there was a minor snake bite resulting from a Biology Lab.

Mrs. Reichelt, Dr. Bombard, and Father Dube.

TUESDAY BUSY AFTERNOON

"We aren't overcrowded on Tuesday afternoons anymore because of new rules. Besides, drill practice is good for posture."

Nonetheless, the infirmary has between 300 and 400 outpatients a week. "At least some people know that this isn't a house of torture. Too many people try to treat themselves. We have the most modern drugs and at wholesale prices."

What about the typical freshman? "He comes with his pajamas and toothbrush."

And Seniors? "They hardly come at all. Either they're very healthy, or they think they're too old to visit us."

Besides Mrs. Reichelt, Father Dube, and Dr. Bombard, there is a pre-medical student on duty daily from 3:30 to 8:30 P.M., when the infirmary closes except for emergencies, and two other people who deliver and serve the meals.

Drill Team Confident in 1961-62

by Paul A. Boucher

Undoubtedly, the sharpest unit in the Cadet Corps is the Unarmed Drill Team.

This has become evident in the past five years as the Drill Team has retired one New England trophy and is two-thirds of the way toward retired its second. All this has been accomplished in five consecutive years.

If the Drill Team wins this year, it will be the first time in history that the same college has retired two New England Unarmed Drill Team Competition Trophies. As a matter of fact, the St. Michael's College Drill Team is the first to ever retire one.

This organization started its winning ways under Captain Vernon Gores, and the tradition has been ably carried on under the guidance of Captain Robert Wilkins who assumed the post of moderator two years ago.

Drill Team, '59

The Drill Team Commander, Cadet Major Michael Mahovich, appears well pleased with the way the team is looking. With 10 returning Sophomores and 13 sharp-looking Freshmen, he feels confident of retiring that second trophy with another win this year.

These three big events on the Drill Team agenda are: The New England Unarmed Drill Team Competition held in Westover AFB, Mass.; possibly another trip to Washington, D.C. for the national competition; and the Parents' Weekend display.

Purple Knights Begin Season December 6; N.Y.A.C-Marine Tourney Holiday Features

by Joe Benkoski

The 1961-62 version of St. Michael's College varsity basketball team will open its hardwood season in Burlington Memorial Auditorium on December 6, 1961 against the Panthers of Middlebury College.

Conspicuously absent from this years schedule are Dartmouth and Providence, attesting to a new policy of playing teams strictly on a small college level. Both the Indian and Friar engagements must be recorded as the highlights of last season's encounter. After apparently establishing themselves among the elite of New England's small college circle with an opening game victory over Adelphi and upsetting Dartmouth 78-71, injuries hampered the Jacobmen for the remainder of the season.

The injury - riddled Purple Knights ventured south to take on highly regarded Providence College only to suffer a heartbreaking 70-66 setback to the NIT champs. Chances for a bid to the N.C.A.A. regional tourney were erased with consecutive losses to Assumption, Vermont, and LeMoyné. Our domination of Northeastern small college basketball supremacy thus came to an abrupt halt as our 11-12 slate testified.

This year a reversal of form is looked forward to by the Hilltoppers. The experienced purple and gold quintet has its long range guns set on Evansville, Indiana. Barring injuries and aided by the support of every Michaelman, this anticipation should blossom in March.

In glancing at this years schedule, I find two re-entries in the lads from Merrimack and Northeastern. SMC came out on the short end of a 73-66 verdict in 1960 at the hands of the Northeastern Huskies. The Huskies should better their 10-10 break-even performance of last season. Their star, Ducey, with no high school experience and Solberg, a take-charge leader, led the Massachusetts club with 312 and 260 points respectively. Numbered among last year's ten losses were close tilts with the University of Massachusetts and Rhode Island's Yankee Conference Rams.

HIGH SCORERS

Merrimack College will travel from its North Andover, Mass. campus on a maiden voyage to the "Queen City." Merrimack brings with it the reputation of the highest scoring team of New England averaging 83.9 ppg. The prestige of this figure is somewhat offset by the Warriors seventh place national standing in committing personal fouls at a rate of 22.3 per game.

The season opener against our neighbors to the south should serve the purpose of a scrimmage considering the Panthers' pussy-cat 2-15 record.

Last year's Marine tournament held in Quantico, Virginia proved disastrous to the northern visitors. At Quantico the Michaelmen succumbed to a strong Jacksonville entry and Philadelphia Textile Institute, but defeated Atlantic Christian in the final game to place seventh in the tourney. At the present time no notification has been received by "Doc" Jacobs as to the other teams entered this year.

After the "Leatherneck" tourney, the Jacobmen will see action in the N.Y.A.C. holiday tournament along with Steubenville, Belmont Abbey, and the host team N.Y.A.C. Steubenville's last appearance in Burlington featured a team which recorded a 24-1 slate including an 81-63 victory over SMC. The year was 1958 - the same year that the Iron Knights captured runner-up laurels in the National Small College Tournament.

Belmont Abbey features a front line which averages 6'10" and is regarded as one of the nation's small college powerhouses. Under the able leadership of Al McGuire, former St. Johns and New York Knickerbocker backcourt field general, the Abbey pulled out a 64-60 thriller in the first game of the tourney. The Bells were ranked 21st in the nation defensively, yielding a mere 61.5 ppg.

N.Y.A.C., comprised of ex-top notch college stars, outscored the Knights 90-81 in their only meeting last year.

Greg McCanna's Norwich squad will invade the Hilltop with high hopes of retaining their half of the Vermont State title. A split between the Cadets and SMC last year gave the Cadets an honor which they won't see again for sometime to come. Norwich finished the season with a 9-8 record. Fran Kasheta led the team in scoring with a total of 31 points followed by Dick D'Elia (217) and Bob Potvin (214).

American International College will suffer again this season from lack of height. Since the graduation of Dick Kross, Little All-American, A.I.C. has yet to put together a winning team. The Aces, however, do show optimism toward the coming season hoping to improve on last year's 3-20 record.

Lee Williams brings his Colby quintet into Burlington seeking to run the Mules victory skien to three in a row over the Purple Knights. Although the White Mules finished the season under the .500 mark at 11-13, the Maine club suffered three overtime losses.

UVM BOLSTERED

UVM started slowly last year with a 3-8 record at the halfway turn, but finished strongly sporting a 9-11 production. The Cats should improve on last seasons play and will unveil a club capable of doing some damage in Yankee Conference play. The nucleus of the Catamounts is centered around Benny Becton (435), nominated to the Yankee Conference second team, and Jack Shabel (286).

The Jacobmen are looking forward to a return engagement with Assumption which handed them an 80-76 defeat last year. Andy Lasaka's Greyhounds compiled a 14-5 record last year but will miss through graduation the services of Fred Barrakat named to The Catholic Digest second team. The Worcesterites ranked 13th nationally in team defense, yielding a sparse 60.3 ppg.

St. Anslem's frosh-laded team jelled early last year, winning 12 in a row after an opening season defeat at the hands of Holy Cross. The Hawks ended the year with a respectable 15-4 record, handing them one of their four losses.

St. A's enjoyed their 20th straight winning season on the strength of a 52.3% field goal accuracy. All five starters: Parillio (301), Greer (284), Daigle (206), Swan, and Maderosian are again on this years roster. Albert F. Grenert, Hawk mentor, selected small college coach of the year by the Brooklyn Tablet, will not be able to use freshmen this year.

SPORTLIGHT

I suppose that you all realize by now that the interclass basketball league has started for the year 1961-1962. But how many of us realize the quality of basketball that is played in this league?

This league was not instituted with the idea of setting up a bunch of bush-league gunners. The guys who play in this league are polished performers.

The fact that these fellows are not polished to the degree of playing varsity or freshman basketball does, in no way whatsoever, detract from the quality of the contest. Anyone expecting a varsity performance in one of these games will not find it, but, so what? This is not the point to be made.

If these fellows were that good, St. Michael's would have one of the most talented basketball teams in the country. Unfortunately, only a few are blessed with the talent and ability to compete on the varsity level. The rest of these athletes must be content to compete on the interclass level.

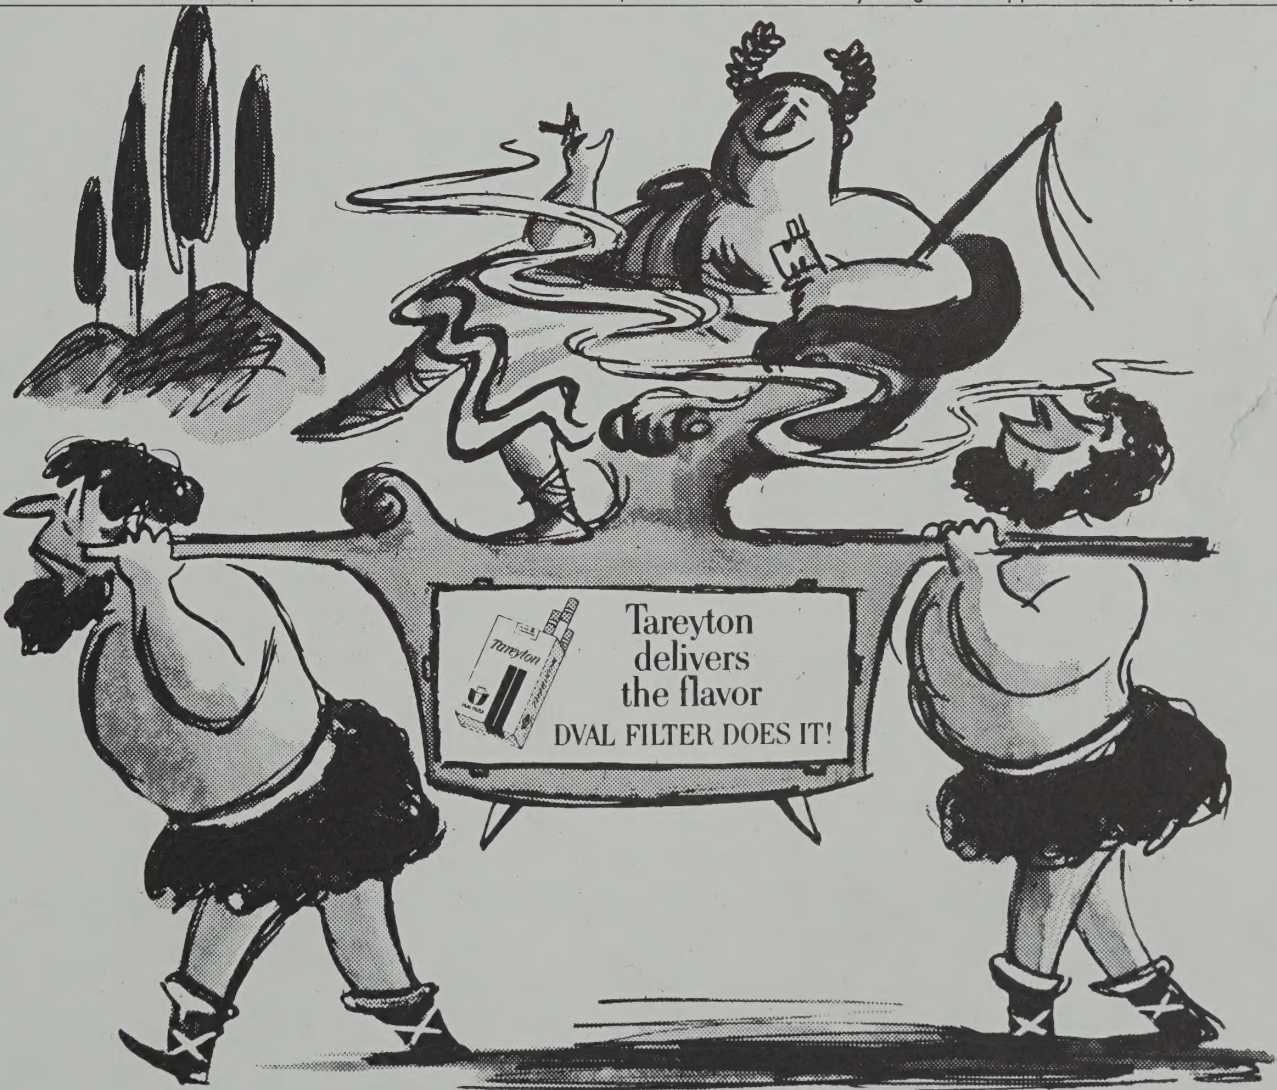

The interclass basketball league was instituted with the idea of alleviating the vacuum caused mostly by mother nature. The weather prevents any extended outdoor activities at this time of year, so interclass basketball becomes another excuse for the classes to try to beat each other. The ensuing results are often interesting to watch. (One will never suffer from boredom while viewing one of these games).

The games are played at a strength-sapping pace. No quarter is asked and none is ever given. These games are played for keeps. The spirit of competition is keen and flare-ups are numerous, but are without consequence.

Last year's competition was captured by the Seniors. Since they have graduated, this leaves the race for laurels wide open.

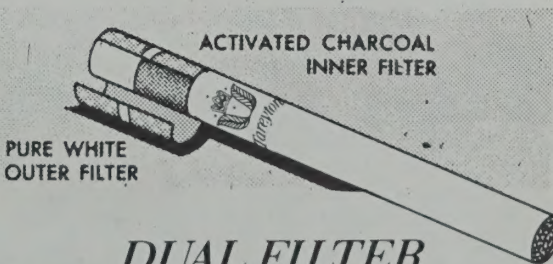

The Juniors would seem to have the edge when one looks at last year's record. They posted a 9-3 record and lost to the champs in a playoff game. The Juniors seem to have the edge with respect to the record but they've lost some of their best ball players and probably won't go all the way.

The Seniors haven't the horses to go all the way and the Frosh will be too disorganized to make it this year. This leaves the Sophomores as the best choice to win the crown. They will be bolstered by last year's squad plus many from last year's frosh team. The outstanding players who should bolster the Sophs are Bob Butler and Tommy Flaherty. Only time will tell and anything can happen. (by Jim White)

MEET THE KNIGHTS

Sophomore Edward K. McDonnell, Elizabeth, New Jersey, will see action with the 1961-'62 St. Michael's College varsity basketball team.

Athletic Director and coach George "Doc" Jacobs has moved the 6'2", 160 lb. guard up from last year's freshman squad, where he averaged 16 ppg to lead the team in that department. He will have to fight for a starting berth this year as both of last year's starting guards return, Captain Al Baldini, Weehawken, N.J. and Fred Cerrato, Bloomfield, N.J.

McDonnell, a 1959 graduate of Oratory Prep, was a varsity star in basketball for three years, as well as captain in his senior year. He also made the Elizabeth, N.J. All-Star team in the years 1957-1959. He is the son of Mrs. Mary McDonnell and the late Mr. McDonnell of the same address. Ed is an Education major.

Sophomore Rod Bushel is expected to add depth to "Doc" Jacob's St. Michael's basketball team this year.

Bushel, a native of Tarrytown, N.Y., where he played not only basketball but also football and baseball, is a solid 6'4", 205 pounds. While playing forward for Sleepy Hollow High School, "Roddy" averaged 15.5 points for a team which managed 17 victories in 20 games.

Last year, starting at forward for the Squires, Rod ripped the nets for 9 points a game.

This year, Rod will give the Knights not only some added scoring punch, but also a big lift in the rebounding department. The talented, all-around athlete, when not working out on the hard court, spends most of his time wrestling with the books, especially the business books.

JOHN JACHYM

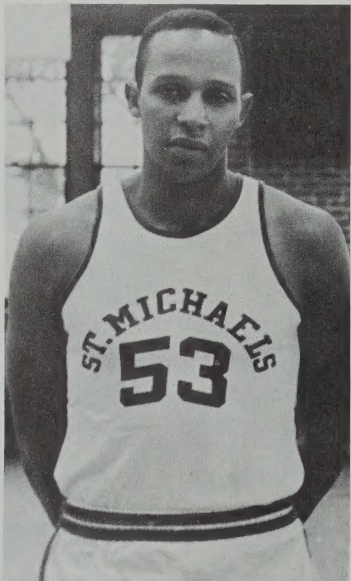

Probably the quietest member of "Doc" Jacobs' potential powerhouse is a young man from Westfield, Mass.

One would easily miss John Jachym when he is around the dorm, unless you were listening for the familiar sound of shuffling feet, but out on the court a complete change seems to come the 6'2" Chem. major. Noted for his constant hustle and quick thinking, John acts as a steady force on his teammates.

As a standout basketball player at Westfield High School, he averaged 16 points per game in his senior year. He entered SMC and soon found himself playing the unfamiliar position of guard.

The way in which John adjusted to his new position was remarkable. Game after game, he turned in fine performances both offensively and defensively.

With such stalwarts as these backing up our starting team, the avid SMC fan need not worry when "Doc" starts looking up and down the bench for a replacement in some critical moment.

DON JONES

Sophomore Donald "Deacon" Jones, Newark, N.J. will see plenty of action on this year's varsity basketball team. Don is a 6'3" jumping jack who dunks with both hands and can rebound with the big boys. He will be a great help to the team in being able to control both backboards.

Don, after a freshman year of basketball went into the United States Marine Corp. for a three year hitch. While there, he played basketball in the center position, for the Leatherneck five.

Don played basketball for three years with his high school team, Our Lady of the Valley, in Orange, N.J. where he was captain in his senior year, 1955-'56.

Seniors Batter Juniors 57-43, For First Win

by Dave McAndrew

The initial game of the 1961-1962 interclass basketball was played Monday night with the Senior scoring a well deserved 57-43 victory over a determined Junior five.

Defense was the main point of stress in the first quarter. With Jerry O'Neill and Jim Dyer playing well for the Juniors, they were able to take a 10-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. Dyer was exceptionally strong under the boards, picking off key rebounds and setting up scores.

The Seniors made a determined bid in the second quarter to bread the game wide open but the fighting Seniors fought harder, indicative of the 23-22 lead they held over the Seniors at the end of the half.

SECOND HALF REVERSAL

The second half was a complete reverse of the first half, with the height of the Seniors being the telling story. Led by Chico Belanger and John Schlegel, who scored 12 and 24 points respectively, the Seniors dominated both the offensive and defensive boards.

Employing a fast break with Brian Mallon at the controls, the Seniors were able to build up a 35-32 lead at the end of three quarters.

The Juniors, led by Dick Powers and O'Neill kept persevering, but the outcome was not favorable.

FOURTH QUARTER DECISIVE

The tall, talented Seniors opened up full throttle in the final quarter, building up a winning score of 57-43; with Schelegel (24), Belanger (12) and Menczywor (10) leading the offensive attack. Brian Mallon also played well for the Seniors, being the chief playmaker.

The Juniors, despite the loss, went down fighting. Dyer (10), Powers (8), O'Neill (8) and Walsh (6) kept their team in the game, but the hieght and speed of the Seniors were too much to overcome.

Hard Luck Raps Booters, Outlook Bright Next Year

by Joe Mauceri

The St. Michael's College soccer team ended its 1961 season Nov. 7 losing here to Lyndon State 2-1.

The team's overall record was 1 win, 4 losses, and 1 tie. The Knights defeated Norwich University 2-1 and tied Plattsburgh State. The record doesn't tell all, however.

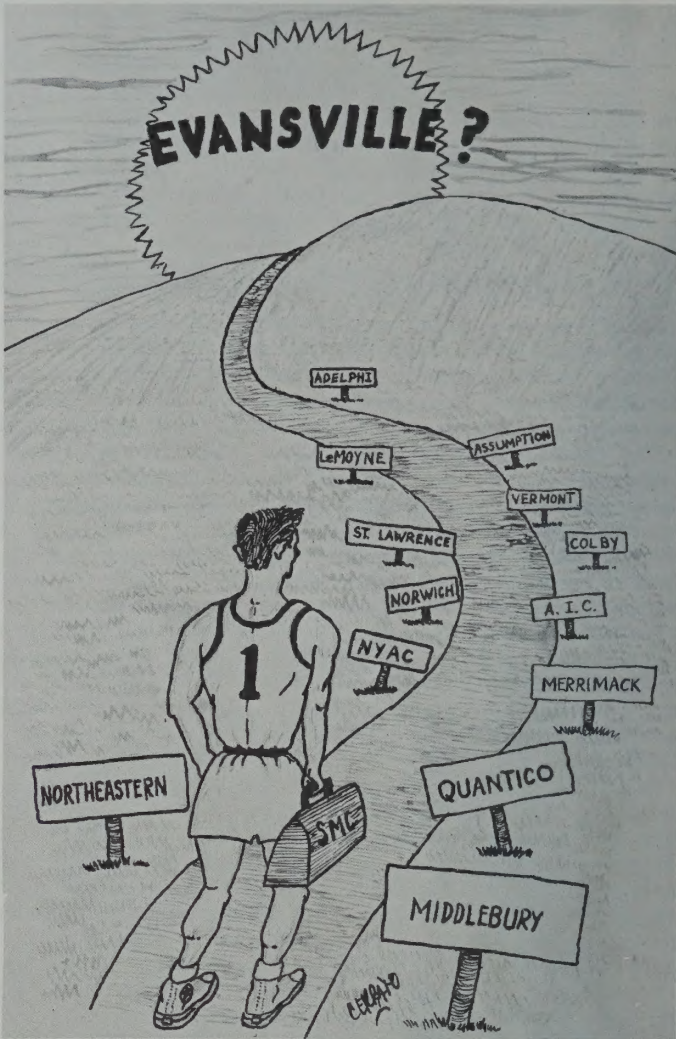

The Knights were knocked with tough luck throughout the season and against such formidable opponents as Middlebury and Castleton, breaks can play an important part in the outcome. The booters were also hurt by inexperience.

Most of the starters were Sophomores and there were no Seniors on the team. The only Junior on the squad was center Ed McGee.

Ed led the way in scoring with three goals. Soph forward Tony Jaremczuk followed with two goals and Justo deCoral and Frank Logan had one each.

Soph Dick Endrelunas was our number one goalie and he turned in a fine season performance, this being his first year playing soccer. Bud Donald, Corky Lavuezzoli and Juan Tamayo played great ball and were ably supported by Norm Roy, Bob Tobin and Mike Cambo. All of these boys worked hard throughout the season and their hustle and spirit made it a not altogether unsuccessful season.

The Long, Long Road

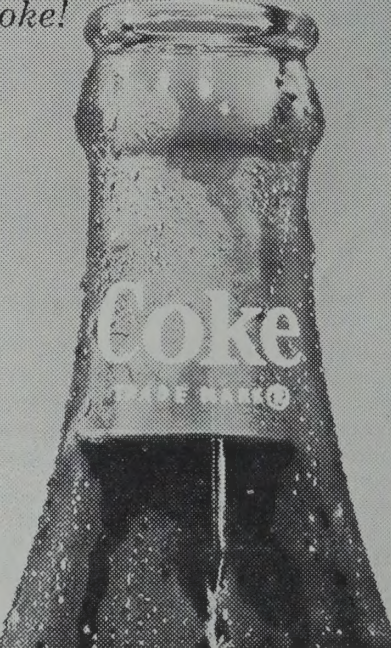

Versatile Fred Cerrato contributes his second cartoon to The Michaelman. Fred sketches The Long, Long Road to the Small College Championships at Evansville. It is a date that "Doc" Jacobs and Seniors Al Baldini and Jim Fitzgerald would very much like to take.
